Champions of Tolerance completes its successes at Al Ain University

Continuing the success of the fourth session held at the University in April 2019, the Ministry of Tolerance launched the fifth session of the Champion of Tolerance training course at Al Ain University, Al Ain campus, under the patronage of HE Sheikh Nahyan bin Mubarak Al Nahyan, Minister of Tolerance.

The training varied between theoretical lectures, practical workshops, and brainstorming sessions, which constitute an integrated approach that paints a tolerant personality.

Dr. Noor El Deen Atatreh, the Chancellor of Al Ain University, said that the Champions of Tolerance program are a true example of the role played by the wise leadership to promote tolerance values locally and internationally. Pointing out that the program contributes at promoting the values of tolerance in the UAE society and motivate recipients to take responsibility and turn their negative energies into positive energies. In promoting tolerance values through the launch of various initiatives and promoting effective community participation.

The participants of the fifth session of the Knights of Tolerance expressed their happiness of participating again in the program, which provided them with great information and extensive experience at both the theoretical and practical levels, to prepare for this program according to the foundations of a high academic. Stressing the remarkable difference that has occurred in their personalities since the previous session until the current session.
