Al Ain Club honors AAU professors on the occasion of Teacher's Day, and the AAU President presented the appreciation certificates

As an appreciation of their efforts and unlimited dedication throughout their academic career, and on the occasion of the World Teacher's Day. Al Ain Club honored Dr. Khairi Mustafa, Dean of the College of Pharmacy, and Dr. Abdel Ghani Ramache, Director of the English Language Teaching Program in the College of Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, as they are the oldest professors at Al Ain University (Al Ain Campus).

In the context of health measures to confront the emerging corona virus and to take all precautionary and preventive measures to preserve the safety of the public in society, which decided to suspend the events and activities and apply the system of work and distance education, Prof. Ghaleb El Refae, AAU President, received the certificates and presented it to the professors on behalf of Al Ain Club.

Al Refae praised the academic achievements done by the professors and all that they have provided to Al Ain University since their joining, wishing them more success in their future educational career. He also stressed on the teacher's role in developing education and developing learners' skills, appreciating their patience and efforts made to facilitate the educational process under the current educational conditions due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

In turn, the Corporate Communication Office at Al Ain Club praised the distinguished relationship and permanent cooperation between the club and Al Ain University. Where their initiative aims to express gratitude and appreciation from the club management to the professors for the effort made by them throughout their teaching period.
