A Virtual workshop on volunteering in cooperation with Red Crescent

The Deanship of Student Affairs, in cooperation with the Emirates Red Crescent, organized a virtual introductory workshop about volunteering, presented by Dr. Adel Al Hinai - a certified lecturer.

The lecturer, began by welcoming the attendees and thanked Al Ain University for providing the opportunity to present the workshop. During the lecture, he addressed the concept of volunteering, its types, objectives, areas, and the most prominent voluntary and humanitarian initiatives.

He also talked about institutional volunteerism and the strategic partnership between the Red Crescent Authority and Al Ain University and its positive impact on society in general and university students in particular. He stressed the importance of activating volunteer work in educational institutions by, attracting student talent and expertise, and establishing student clubs and volunteer teams to contribute for services required for their country and society.
